

I SHALL RETURN

How can I live with your sad smile on my mind
How can I see clearly with your face in my eyes
How can I release you, my fingers entwined
How can I resist you, you coaxed me to life

When I first saw you this morning
And all the world was aglow
Then came the damn burst
Flooding below.

I shall be reborn again
I shall live for ever more
I shall quench this burning flame
At the fresh flowing well of your love

I pass through this alleyway of tears
And all the anguish changing shape transforms to song
As I walk on
I want you to take me as I am
No matter how the world portrays me or dismays me
You must see me

How can I hold your hand when you need to fly
How can I cage your kiss 'til the end of time
How can I feel my own skin when sleeping with you
How can I move on from this, start to live anew

One look and I was ignited
You were the hot glowing spark,
Flame that burns all night,
Blaze in the dark.

I shall like a Phoenix rise
I shall sing with a new fire
I shall spread wings of desire
From the smouldering ash of the pyre

From this crazy virtual template
Just in the nick of time before it is too late
I will create
From your crystal waters I'll drink deep
And as they fill my soul I know I still will burn
I shall return